

Job Training & Internship (JTI) Program

Overview:

Stella's Child strives to unlock the potential of underserved youth by providing them with a blend of programs that increase their self-esteem and confidence as well as their employability. It is our goal to equip these children with the tools they need to break their cycle of poverty so that their own children and families do not have to endure the hardships with which they have grown up. These are intelligent, talented, and capable children who, by mere circumstance of birth, lack life's most fundamental opportunities.

Program Highlights:

Stella's Child also ensures that the young people in the program are fully equipped to make the most of future opportunities, through supplementary training in entrepreneurship, personal finance and budgeting, office administration and management, creative thinking and problem solving, and leadership and communications.

The program also includes a youth savings program to provide a mechanism for youth to begin savings for their transition upon high school graduation and into the workforce.

2022 Program Description:

Finding a job is challenging in any culture. This challenge is only exacerbated for underprivileged children without the means and expertise to navigate the job market. Summary

Too many disadvantaged youths enter the Indonesian workforce under prepared and under skilled. Through our business-minded approach to positive youth development, we help young people rediscover their dreams or create new ones, then work with them to develop the necessary experience to make them real. Our entrepreneurship program enables participants to learn business by doing business. We then connect participants with highly skilled mentors and forward-thinking companies looking for talent. All of this enables these youths to succeed on their own terms, through their own abilities.
